ROYAL HEALTH CARE, LLC ANNOUNCES ITS MEMBERSHIP IN THE SOCIETY OF PROFESSIONAL BENEFIT ADMINISTRATORS (“SPBA”)

NEW YORK, New York – April 15, 2008

Royal Health Care, LLC, a leading healthcare technology and healthcare administrative services company, has announced it recently became a member of the industry-leading Third Party Administrators (“TPA”) association, the Society of Professional Benefit Administrators (“SPBA”).

As a licensed third party administrator, Royal Health Care is joining other SPBA members that have a vested interest in promoting excellence and professionalism in the administration of employee and member benefits. SPBA membership will provide Royal another opportunity to keep abreast of industry trends and pending legislation across the country that impacts healthcare and those who help administer healthcare benefits. At the same time, through its SPBA membership Royal is looking forward to contributing to the national debate regarding the path health care delivery should take to best serve employer groups, members, employees - and patients.

The Society of Professional Benefit Plan Administrators currently has over 300 member TPA firms located across the country. Among other things, SPBA serves to help member TPAs stay current on developing healthcare benefit related legislative news and the ever-changing regulatory requirements affecting employee healthcare benefits and the administration of those benefits.

Speaking about Royal’s new membership in SPBA, Cathy Weigle, Vice President, Business Development and Client Services said, “Our goals and those of SPBA are aligned – to provide cost efficient, high quality services for health plans.”
